

California Northstate University College of Medicine Talent Show

On Wednesday, March 29th, the College of Medicine hosted its first annual talent show, featuring students and faculty. The 13 acts represented CNUCOM's diversity, showcasing everything from a 10-person Bhangra routine to an excerpt from The Sound of Music. It was a night full of music, dancing, and magic (courtesy of The Amazing Pepe), and an excellent way to encourage our students and faculty to pursue their interests outside of academia. We were grateful and excited to see a full house, as all proceeds went to Brandon Dunmore's family. We were able to raise $1200, and the event was such a success, we hope to continue it as a CNUCOM tradition. If you are interested in participating in next year's talent show, please contact Kayla Sheehan (kayla.sheehan1253@cnsu.edu).

Right: Bhangra dancers

Below: The Amazing Pepe performing magic

Below: Musical talent - pianists, guitarists, and singers

