

Student Research Seminar

Featuring:
Matthew Zabel, PhD

On Monday October 26, 2015 California Northstate University College of Medicine was pleased to host a research seminar presented by Matthew Zabel, PhD, a current medical student. The seminar was entitled “Microglia and Complement: Innate Immune Effectors in Brain Development and Disease.” Before joining CNUCOM, Matthew Zabel was a NIH Research Fellow and continues to make the CNU community proud with his great research achievements.

